FOREWORD

ONLY the editor and the business manager of a publication can know the moments of agony and satisfaction that go into the making of an annual. At first there is the problem of drawing up a tentative dummy; then come headaches over photography and the cover. Each new day teaches its lesson. There are innumerable consultations about prices, budgets, ads, and engravings; the deadline looms black and grim on the horizon. Comprehensives suddenly pop up out of nowhere and waggle a threatening finger at the now gray-headed editor and her fellow-sufferer, the business manager. For a few dark hours despair reigns supreme. Then, wonder of wonders, the staff comes through handsomely, all material is ready for the printer, and with great gusty sighs of relief the editor and her budgeteer whisk off on Senior Week-end to forget it all, to bask in the sun, and to feel that small glow of pride which comes from the knowledge of a completed task.

MISS ABBIE Z. WEBB

DEDICATION

IT is especially fitting that we, the class of 1939, should dedicate our annual to one whose life has been and always will be an integral part of Lake Erie. Miss Abbie Z. Webb expresses so perfectly the spirit of our college that we can think of no greater honor for our class than to make her one of us by giving her this most revered place in our affections. Our earnest hope is that we may somehow live up to her ideals, for they are the true ideals of Lake Erie. It is therefore with unanimous approval that we dedicate this Tiber to our Miss Webb; may we by this token show some measure of our gratitude for her unfailing interest and kindness.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

SIXTY-SEVEN strong they came, this last freshman class, one of the largest groups of students to enter Lake Erie's doors. Bound together by grand class spirit, they took sophomore devilment with the best grace possible, and agreed after it was all over that the sophs were really all right. Once through the week of initiation, freshmen appreciated anew what their big sisters meant to them. With the feeling that they "belonged" they proceeded to rally to the cause, and won the basketball tournament—not to mention being runner up in the Hockey finals.

Talent will out, even in freshman year, and the proof of it lies in the class plays. Laura Belle Layman, as the princess, with Barbara Hilditch, Jane McGlone, Betsy Ferguson, Sue Plasic, Mina Berenstein, and Margery Jones as supporting cast made "The Faraway Princess" a real fairy tale.

And the Hard Times Party! Just glance through our snapshot pages and you'll get some idea of what hilarity is like. Such costumes, such originality—and such food! Pirates, sailors, swashbuckling buccaneers, and dainty Victorian misses supplied splashes of color, and it was hard to choose the prize winners.

Wise in their choice of a faculty advisor, the freshmen are fortunate enough to be under the guidance of Mr. Hickerson. All too soon, it seems, has this first year gone by; the freshman dance, given during Prom week end, was a fitting climax to Lake Erie's social life.

Each of our sixty-seven has tried to emulate the character of a true Lake Erieite. Here charm, dignity, and poise give to each girl the ambition to achieve her own goal.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

FRESHMEN once, but sophomores now! The word has a magic ring for all thirty-eight of us. This certainly has been an eventful year for the class of '41. Freshman-Sophomore week gave us just the prestige we needed with the "small fry" to start the year off with a bang and then—we found the treasure box! A lucky break, we all agreed. The whole year has continued to bring in plenty of luck, and loads of fun, besides, with class president, Carol Thomas, seeing us nobly through. Remember the Christmas dance? We thought the decorations were pretty novel, and everybody seemed to have a lot of fun. But we aren't satisfied with our record yet, and we hope to better it when, for the first time, we assume the role of upperclassmen.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

WE Juniors, upon our arrival at college this fall, learned that a career of busy business-women had been plotted for us. Our first Saturday we supervised the Y. W. C. A. reception, and the next Saturday the picnic at Township Park. Also we had to pinch pennies and so carried on with Junior Sandwiches and a raffle on a radio.

At class dinners, however, we were forced out of our shell by Barbara Morris' beautiful speech to the Founders, and by singing to our sister class. In addition to all our business activities, we have had to take time out for sports, especially hockey, tennis, dramatics, the Lantern, and the Tiber. Lastly,—grades, with eleven of us being elected to Kappa Alpha Sigma. Did we say lastly? Add a huge P. S.—Prom, with Jeannette Bricker as chairman. Although we have been such busy bees all year, we must confess that we have felt mighty blue about the seniors graduating, and are hoping that next year we may live up to their reputation.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

SO now we are at the beginning of the end of our college days. Before setting up our card tables and filling our fountain pens we shall stop for a moment to talk of ships and sealing wax. We'll leave the knotty future, and linger with fleeting melancholy over the years when we were younger than we are, and Time was not so fast a-flying.

With rousing glee we burst into senior year singing "I would rather be a senior" and a triumphant "black and gold they are our colors" . . . life was a not very minor heaven, with caps and gowns instead of halos . . . Founders' Day we suffered our annual defeat in hockey, but after four years one becomes reconciled to anything . . . the senior dance, for once an unqualified success, was balm to our collective vanity . . . besides, Miller had found the cake the night before, neatly enthroned on top of the telephone booth . . . we revelled in our twelve forty-five permissions . . . particularly since the D. U.'s and Betas suddenly began to appear on our campus in soul-satisfying numbers . . . after Christmas the fraternity pins made their debut . . . so did the class with a tea that brought forth unexpected reverberations . . . we tearfully sent our mellowed saddle shoes off to the rummage sale . . . economics victorious over sentiment . . . and to everyone's astonishment, won our first swimming meet and the cup for class plays! . . . senior week-end dissolved in tears and songs . . . Grove Day we sang our cherished sister class songs for the last time, vividly transported back to the day we arrived, four years ago . . .

"When we were freshmen . . . the largest class that had entered Lake Erie for several years . . . thirty-five strong and more conscious of our quantity than our quality . . . Mr. Hickerson appalled us by deciding we were "vegetables" . . . we were a little self-conscious . . . ranting at the slightest provocation just to hear the reassuring sound of our own voices . . . we found the treasure and bolstered our wilted egos . . . and the dates we enticed to Painesville for that first tea dance . . . a fraternity picked at random, complete with pledges . . . the idea was a good one, but not fool proof . . . however, it launched us upon our social career which, like the baptismal tea dance, has proven exceedingly interesting but not without its minor catastrophes . . .

Sophomore year we went conservatively wild . . . staying up all night talking about Life and Challenges . . . the Christmas formal . . . we returned from vacation saddened by the death of our classmate, Aileen Reed . . . we furnished the idea of our incomparable Billie for the first musical comedy, "Long Live the Swing" . . . and to everyone's delight received our first athletic championships when Starkie won the golf and Dottie the tennis cups . . . feeling our first intimations of sorrow at Commencement when we said good-bye to thirty-seven . . . "We'll never forget you, though the years may pass . . ."

We were good juniors . . . selling so many sandwiches we seriously considered giving them as prom favors . . . our resigning sponsor, Mrs. Blakely, presented us with a mascot in the form of one Jonathon . . . we took the drama cup . . . and prom . . . glamorous, exciting, and successful beyond our wildest dreams . . . the stars looked down and fortunately didn't fall . . . lone going quietly mad at the last minute . . . Marg developing a sudden vital interest in the services of the Western Union . . . Joyce on a step ladder . . . everyone agog over seeing the original owner of Wiltsie's pin . . . Janet serenading Mrs. Crandall all the way back from the Yacht Club . . . Dottie and her escort who occasioned a remark on the size of the moths in Chicago . . . Betty Bandlow looking like something out of Harper's Bazaar . . . and Becky in white satin with a Cheshire cat air about her . . .

And suddenly we were seniors . . . Mary Beth fighting and praying over the senior pictures . . . Bunny's three sittings, each worse than the one before . . . Griff practice teaching . . . Gerry leaning out of a window in the chem lab . . . Kay wearily emerging from too much Government . . . Clare raving about Helen Perry . . . Mary Lou and the classics . . . Phee and her Charleses . . . Rosie and the Washington trip . . . Phoebe Ann in flying clothes . . . senior recitals by June, Billie, and Wilts . . . and Pat luxuriating in the peace and quiet of the library . . . thirty-nine managing things . . . Nancy and the Community Fund . . . Frances and the Lantern . . . Billie and Y Dub . . . "The seniors are a voice, crying in the wilderness . . ." and our last year is almost over . . . we only know that it has been the briefest, the happiest, and the best . . . we are singing to the seniors . . . hail, thirty-nine . . .

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

The International Relations Club has been very busy this year, what with the world being in an uproar and there being so much to talk about in attempting to settle things. At every meeting the members have given lectures on various important topics, such as the Far-Eastern Crisis, the Czechs and Germans, the American Foreign Policy, and the Crisis in Europe. In addition to the meetings, the club has sent five girls to Columbus to the Ohio Valley Conference of international Relations Clubs, and two seniors, Betty Bandlow and Rose Marco, to Washington. Mr. Harrison Brown, who talked to the entire student body on the Chinese-Japanese situation, was brought by the club. Certain students have given a chapel program, and the club has taken a very active interest in the Forum. Although the club could not come to any definite conclusions as to just how to settle the nation's troubles (who can?), it has certainly done a great deal to stimulate thought.

LE CERCLE VICTOR HUGO

Le Cercle Victor Hugo has had a new advisor this year: Mlle Suzanne d'Orssaud. Vitally interested in the work of the French Club, Mlle d'Orssaud has given invaluable assistance in planning and presenting unusual programs.

Twice a month, Le Cercle Victor Hugo holds a meeting in Social Hall, —meetings of diversified natures, for the program is as likely to consist of an evening of bridge as it is of a scholarly lecture. La langue française, bien entendu, holds forth during the session; but to the outsider, it is rather a queer mixture of English and French that one hears at such times. This year, in addition to its usual programs, the club has been fortunate in having as its guests M. Baldensperger, author and professor at Harvard, and Mme Caro-Delvaile, eminent Frenchwomen.

But the activities of the French Club are not confined to the walls of Lake Erie. One Friday a month, Mr. Clapp generously overloads his car and drives girls to the Maison Française, the French organization of Cleveland whose programs range from academic presentations to ludicrous Punch and Judy shows.

ATHLETIC BOARD

In former years, girls of our age were either old maids, knitting a lavender shawl, or else wives, cooking, washing, sewing, and spending most of their time indoors. That is all past and over; now, the true Lake Erieite is out in the sun and the rain, bruising and broiling with the rest of modern youth.

We swim and ride, we play hockey and tennis, and we take time out for a bit of basketball and bowling. The modern Lake Erie girl has the wind in her hair and the sun in her face, and she carries herself with the grace of a true sportswoman.

All this has been brought about in Lake Erie by the time-honored Athletic Association. This association takes care of our equipment, and sponsors all events on Founders' Day as well as on Sports Day. It has brought to Lake Erie such special coaches as Sue Cross, and invitations come to its cabinet from many neighboring colleges. In short, the Athletic Board of Lake Erie has a very high rating.

ART CLUB

Learning of Miss Lee's intended trip abroad in February, the Art Club decided to "make hay while the sun shines" and had her supervise all their meetings, which were held in the studio for the first semester. At tea-time once a month the club exhibited some famous collections and also sold their maps of the college. As the semester came to a close, the members planned a farewell party for Miss Lee, at the same time presenting her with a most instructive (even down to the fine points of what kind of gum to chew at what time) travel book. Then, not wishing to be pointed out as "mice playing while the cat's away," (no aspersions!) the club decided upon a program of intensive study of such weighty books as Fashion is Spinach, Block Printing in Three Easy Lessons, and a lecture from each member of the club at each worthy meeting. Who can deny after a glance at the activities of the club that "art for art's sake" is a coming thing!

THE LANTERN

The Lake Erie Lantern, in its third year of existence, has established itself as a definite factor in Lake Erie life. Eight times during the year it made its appearance; it contained news and reviews and editorials and poetry and gossip—and advertisements. Its printed pages were the basis for many a Subway discussion—and a Subway discussion signifies that the thing in question has attained a high degree of prominence. In the case of the Lantern, that prominence is deserved.

Mr. Hickerson continued in his capacity of faculty advisor of the Lantern; Frances Heckathorne was the Editor and the other main offices were held by Barbara Steinfeld, Assistant Editor; Dea McCain, Business Manager; and Jean Eggleston, Circulation Manager. There were reporters from every class and, upon occasion, contributors too.

As the voice of the student body, the Lantern hopes to occupy an increasingly important place in student life. When the voice of the student body grows loud and longwinded, the Lantern will expand and progress even more than it has during its first three years at Lake Erie.

Y. W. C. A.

Every girl upon entering Lake Erie becomes a member of the Y. W. C. A. Membership means standing for all of the high ideals cited in the Y. W. C. A. pledge and leading a good Christian life. Besides being a religious organization, the Y. W. C. A. is also a social and an educational organization. Many of the college functions, such as the reception the first Saturday night, "pop in" night, the "bat" and the Christmas party for the orphans are sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. Its ideal is to make of each girl a finer, better person, typical of the high standards of Lake Erie. The organization strives to develop to the full the capabilities and hidden talents of every girl. By adopting a theme, or motto, for the year one goal or purpose is always kept in sight. This year's motto was "Creative Living." Throughout the year the Y. W. C. A. sponsors various activities, such as dressing dolls for Christmas, book reviews, talks, and travelogues, given by different members of the student body and the faculty. Also, there are some excellent outside speakers. This year the Y. W. C. A. was hostess for the Northern Ohio Conference, which included all of the colleges in northern Ohio and met at Lake Erie in April.

GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club made its first appearance for 1939 at the Y. W. C. A. reception. Shortly after that, the club tryouts were in order; a variety of voices and people were finally selected to become permanent members. Henceforward they too devoted their Monday evenings to scales and warbles and trills.

The Morning of Christmas vacation the Glee Club arose early, according to custom, and went out into the slush to carol beneath the windows of the privileged few. Afterward there was breakfast at Rider Tavern.

In March came the Glee Club dance at which the members of Western Reserve Glee Club were guests. Lake Erie enjoyed the dance very much, from both a mercenary and a social standpoint. Two weeks later, the Alumnae Council had the pleasure of hearing the Glee Club sing some familiar songs—and sing them well, too. In May, there was another early morning rising—no slush this time—for the purpose of welcoming May Day and all that it promised.

At last there was June and Commencement time. The club made its final appearance on Grove Day when it presented its concert. And that is the story of the Glee Club of 1939; only part of it will be back to keep 1940 supplied with the songs for which Lake Erie's students love her.

AVIATION CLUB

Wings over Lake Erie! That is a pleasant sound to hear. And it is even more thrilling when you realize that the pilot of the plane circling above your head may be Bunny Bachman, Phoebe Ann Ford, the two soloists, or Jean Fulton, who is getting ready to take her test.

Flash! Lake Erie beat Mt. Holyoke to the draw. We were the first girls' college to join the National Intercollegiate Flying Club. Just ask the three representatives who went to the N. I. F. C. convention if it was really worth it. After some high flying at Washington, the three new recruits came home to peace and quiet, only to be swamped with requests for autographs by their ardent admirers. (My, my! Lake Erie in the headlines!) There is another flying meet in Kenyon this summer; from the stories told by the first three conventionists, the whole student body is going to be out at the field waiting in line for instruction.

Mr. Porter is the instructor at the field. Besides his instruction, the club has special meetings, at which such celebrated fliers and Lee Gelbach, test pilot, and the late Amelia Earhart have spoken.

The Aviation Club is only four years old, but it has flown far and high since then. Here's luck to all of Lake Erie's potential soloists!

PHILOSOPHY CLUB

To say that the Philosophy Club has missed Dr. Anderson is gross understatement. It is literally lost without him. It has been one of the most alive clubs in the school, but now it lies dormant waiting for Dr. Anderson to return and breathe the breath of life into it once more. I do not mean to say that the Philosophy Club is really dead. Not at all! All of the girls who are in the club still meet together and discuss problems, but without the benefit of newly accumulated knowledge, for without Dr. Anderson no Philosophy courses are being taught. The girls are hoping, however, that next year, when Dr. Anderson is again at Lake Erie, the Philosophy Club will be larger and more full of life than ever before.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Waffles for breakfast on Founder's Day again this year. Can the Home Economics Club be initiating another custom? After the cooking came the sewing, this time the sewing of puppets to appear in a production of "Hansel and Gretel" at the Orphans' Christmas Party. Then there was a regional conference in Akron which the club attended en masse.

Scattered here and there were the usual social meetings with food and business meetings without it. Although Miss Wardwell, Home Ec advisor, deserted to New York at midyears, the club continued on its merry way; more programs and more speakers. There was Dr. Pierce, favorite of all Lake Erie students, the buyer at Grant's, and Martha Daugherty, a former Lake Erie student who is now technicianing in Cleveland hospitals. One more conference, this time the State Conference in Columbus, attracted the club's attention, and so one delegate went to Columbus in April. The last meeting of the year was a bat held at the lake in honor of the senior members of the club.

SCIENCE CLUB

Are you scientifically minded? If so, the Science Club of Lake Erie is just the thing you're looking for! President Geraldine Carson is a chemistry major herself and all the other twenty-five members are very much interested in science and have had at least two years of it. The object of the club is to keep up with the scientific progress of the day, and to discuss intelligently the major problems which a scientist may encounter. Outside speakers are often invited to address the club, and many interesting programs are planned throughout the year. Field trips are by no means the least important part of the club's activity, so join the Science Club and keep up with the latest in the modern world!

TIBER BOARD

Work begins for the Tiber Board at the moment of its election, although few realize it. Plans take shape during the summer, contracts are drawn up, engravers bid for the job. Out of a multitude of unrelated material a unified whole must be formed.

The Art Board helps create designs, the Literary Board helps create copy. Covers must be chosen, type must be set, ads must be run down, photographs must be taken. From the beginning of the school year there is in the back of our minds one thing: the Tiber must be out on time. Despite trials and tribulations not always to be blamed on the board itself, it seems that things eventually work out.

To plan, to execute that plan, and to see it emerge in tangible form is a thrill which everyone has known; to those of us with printer's blood in our veins the thrill is even deeper. All we can do now is hope that our efforts have given you pleasure.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Student Government is the leader among our organizations. At times some of us feel oppressed by it, but with a little thought, we realize that dormitory life without such a governing body would be impossible.

This year many of our penalties of long-standing seem to have become outworn. To the unaccustomed freshman "campus" means relatively little; by the more experienced upperclassman it has been openly disregarded. Even "probation," for years considered a dreadful penalty, is no longer looked upon as serious. Therefore the Student Government board has had to depend a great deal upon the ingenuity of its members in the inflicting of punishments. Lazy offenders are forced to rise early to attend breakfast; dieting reprobates must go to all their meals; noise-makers have periods of "solitary confinement" every evening; smokers are forbidden the use of the Subway.

The Student Government Association, to which the entire student body belongs, needs the cooperation of all its members; without this, it is powerless and ineffective. Since Lake Erie's enrollment is so limited in number, the board is able to consider the individual offender rather than merely the offense. Thus, with the student's faith that her case will be considered fairly, from every possible angle, we feel that we shall always have this necessary cooperation.

HONOR BOARD

The Honor Board of Lake Erie College is, we sometimes erroneously think, a little-known institution on the campus. Perhaps this impression is due to the fact that so few cases come before the Board, and that each case is handled with dignity and discretion, as far as possible. Each student upon entering Lake Erie is instructed in the principles of the Honor System, and little reference is made to it thereafter; but every individual is expected to depend upon her sense of fairness and cooperation to keep the system in effect. Its function is not to terrify the offender into good behavior, but to instill in her a sense of honor and loyalty to all that is most symbolic of our college life.

KAPPA ALPHA SIGMA

Kappa Alpha Sigma, Lake Erie's Honorary Society, has swelled its numbers to nineteen this year. It has been the aim of the society to make K. A. S. a more active organization on the campus, and to this end two goals have been set up: first, to form a student group on academic affairs, and second, to collect material for a publication which is to be sponsored by Kappa Alpha. These goals were decided upon at the first meeting of the society at Miss Small's home.

Throughout the year the group holds business meetings whenever necessary, and at the initiation dinner the members are formally taken into Kappa Alpha Sigma. Usually there is a chapel service at some time during the year to explain to the student body the aims and ideals of the society. Every member is expected to live up to this three-fold requirement: leadership, scholarship, and loyalty to the college. It should be emphasized that any one of these qualities is not enough to make a girl eligible for membership; a girl must possess all three requisites to a high degree. For this reason each member feels a certain pride when she wears her pin or key, because it is a symbol of well-rounded achievement.

CHOIR

When you hear a bell that rings longer and seemingly louder than all the rest you may be sure that the hand which rings it belongs to Mr. Kraft. As soon as the bell has stopped its insistent noise you will see what seems to be half of the student body scurrying to rehearsal. A great many of them are apparently drawn up from the Subway, led by Mr. Kraft's "Lord Chesterfield" remarks. On Tuesday at noon the sopranos have Mr. Kraft, the director and organist, to themselves in the chapel, and on Friday noons it is the altos who are the fortunate ones. On Tuesday evenings all of the sixty members congregate in the Morley Music Building for the principal rehearsal of the week.

The choir makes many public appearances during the year. There is a Vesper Service each month at which four anthems are usually sung. Perhaps the most touching and impressive of all the programs is the one to which people from far away look forward each year—Christmas Vespers. Mr. Kraft and the choir take charge of the service, and everyone leaves imbued with the spirit of the holiday. The other full program presented by the choir is the spring concert on the evening of Baccalaureate Sunday.

All of the girls who are in choir have agreed wholeheartedly that it is one of the most enjoyable things about college.

Have you noticed the table conversation turn to the topic of photography recently? Have you noted an aroused interest in picture taking around campus? Did you wonder why a few of the students were carrying those strange lights and bulbs around the dorm? These new doings are partly the result of the new Photography Group at L. E. C. This group is the Y. W. C. A.'s most recent brain wave.

The organization has already proven advantageous to its members. Fortunate ones have learned to compose their shots, to set their cameras, and to pose their subjects in the best way for taking outstanding pictures. Advanced members will delve deeper and deeper into the developing, printing, and enlarging of photographs. The college, however, is by far the beneficiary. Photographs of college activities taken by such a group are the most efficient publicity agents a school can have. Good "snaps" published in magazines, newspapers, and pamphlets are bound to arouse public interest. Chemistry, Botany, and Zoology photographs can be of exceeding value to college notebooks and textbooks. Taking these points into consideration, one wonders how a college could progress to its "nth" degree without the aid of a dependable organization of photographers. With the support of the college there will be no limit to the rapid progress of such a group.

CROP AND SPUR

Sponsors/Mrs. Bartlett, Miss Harriet Gray, Miss Cash

Watch out on the wooded pathways, for you are liable to be stampeded by a band of mounted Lake Erieites, on their way for a moonlight jaunt. Supper on the beach, an evening of song, and a ride back through the trees under the light of a young spring moon—what could tempt the imagination more?

Formed by a group of riding enthusiasts, the Crop and Spur is on its way to novel and intriguing success. At the first meeting, which was a dinner held in the small dining room, Clarissa Weldon was awarded a five-dollar riding ticket for her apt suggestion of a name for the club. "Crop and Spur" expresses the gay spirit of the members better than a whole book of explanation. Heading the club is Barbara Griswold, with a committee consisting of Louise Brown and Elizabeth Casey. Sponsored by Mrs. B., Miss Gray, and Miss Cash, the Crop and Spur bids fair to become one of the most alive groups in Lake Erie. We wish you luck!

Munching an apple with Lou Marco is Weesie Brown, our staff photographer . . . she took every picture on this page . . . lone shushes, but Marg and Einor just grin . . . Phemie and Pat look very industrious, but Beth Farnham is daydreaming . . . Jean and Margery seem to be listening to Billie pull music out of the keys . . .

Flying, picnicking, hitting the battleboard and gazing through the microscope are all fascinating . . . Members of the newly formed Photography Group took all these pictures . . . we need more go-getters like them!

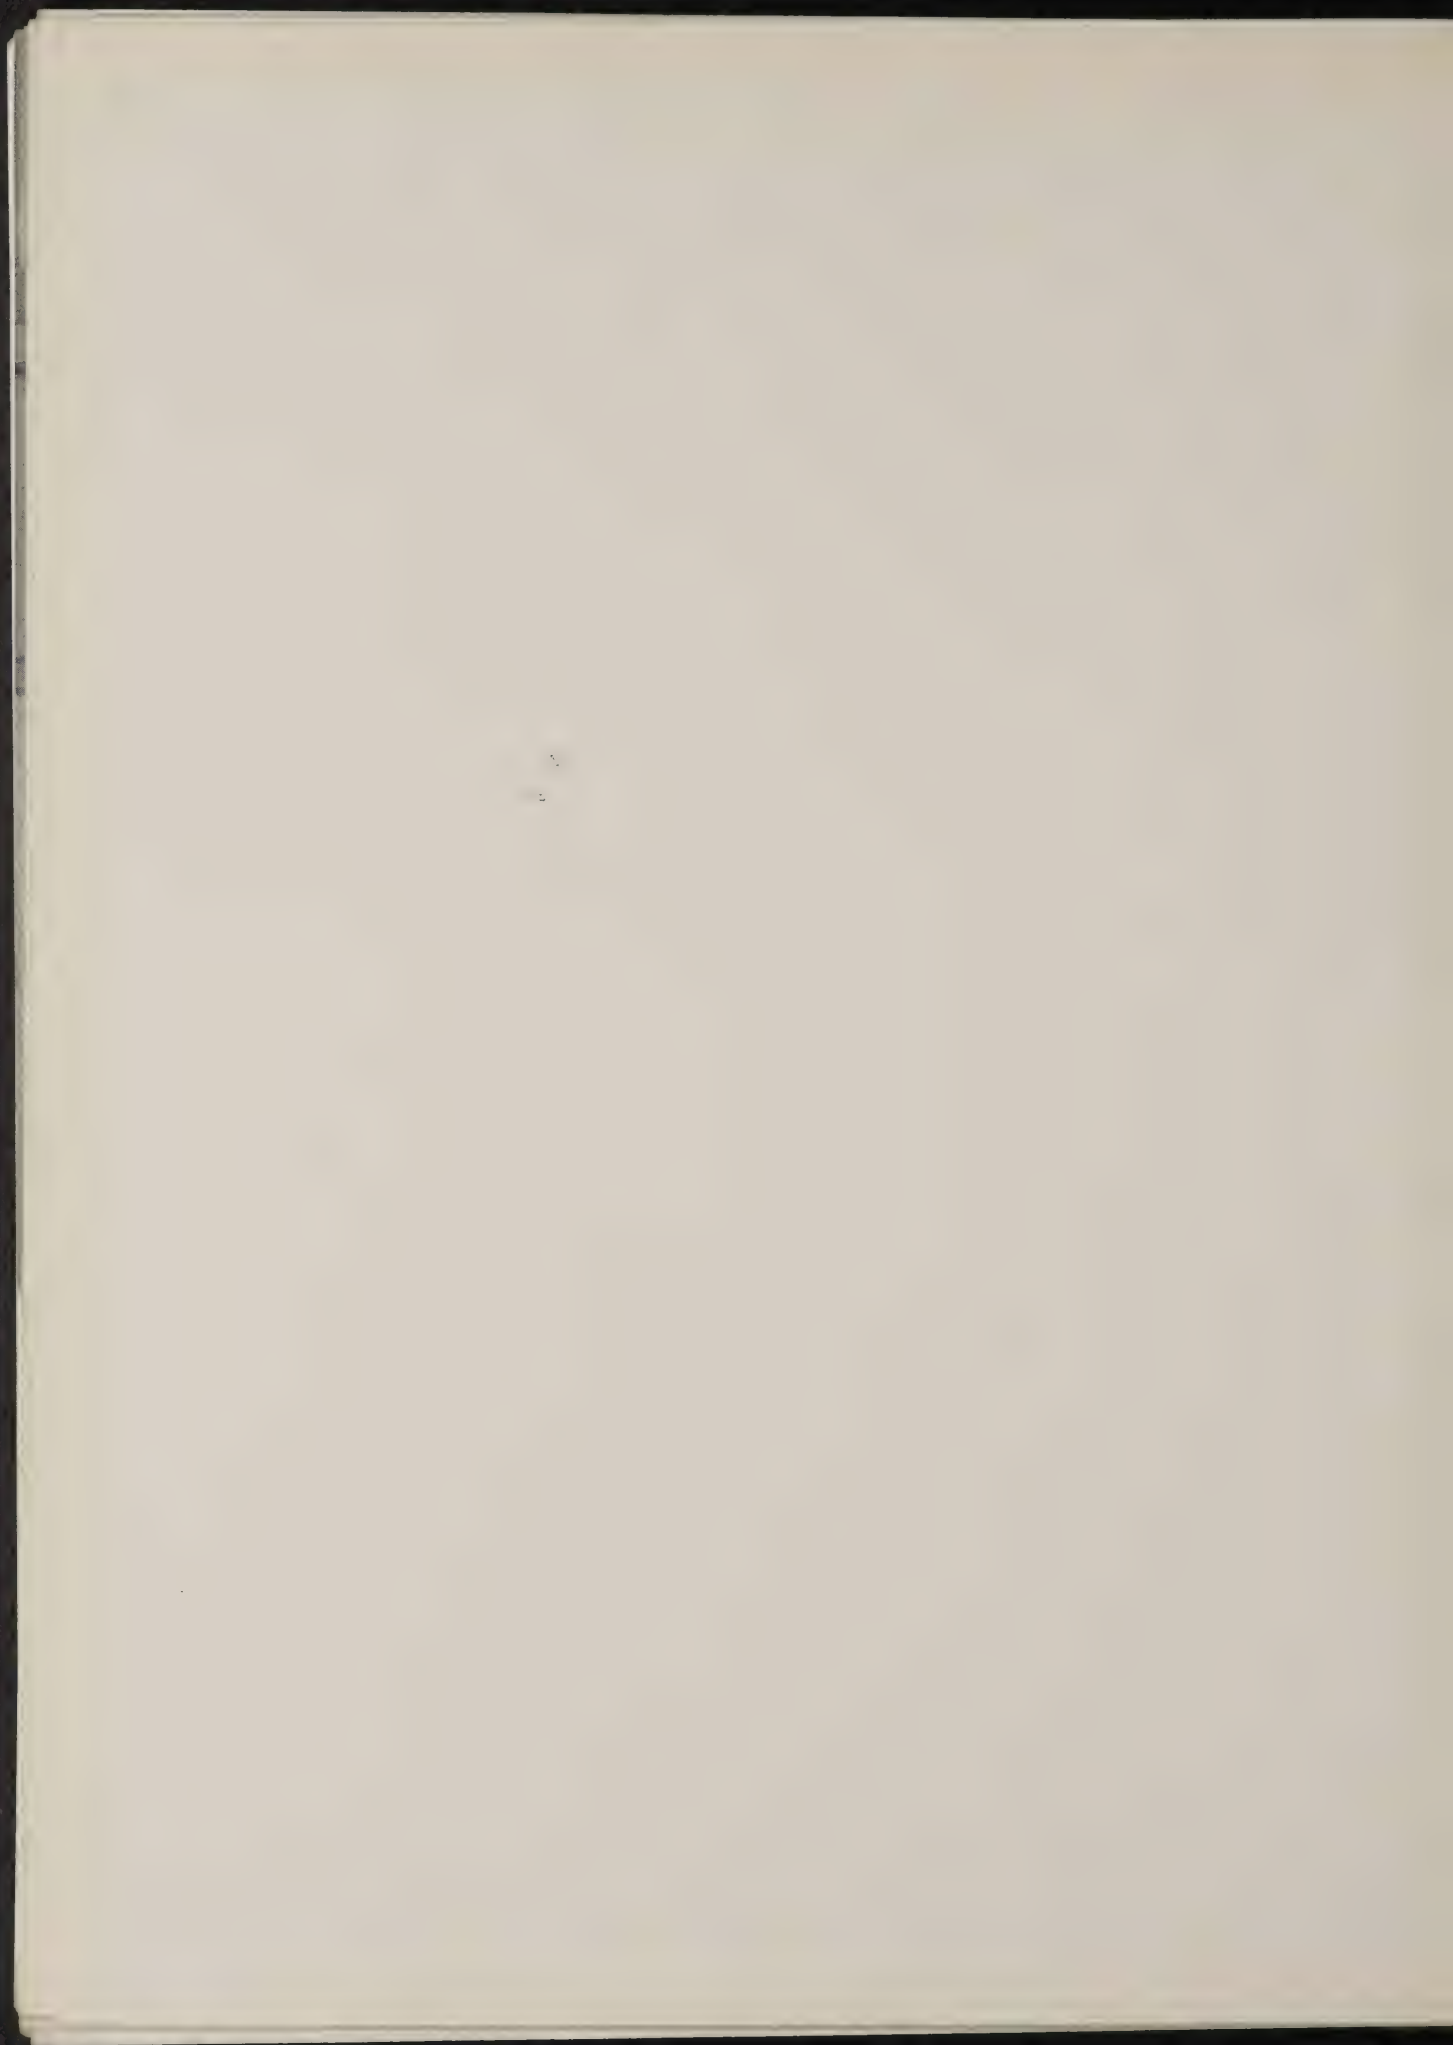

The haven of noise-weary quiet-seekers . . . cozy to doze in front of the fire in that inviting red leather arm chair . . . Checking books in and out . . . It's eight-thirty and I haven't any money for fines! . . . listen to that . . . those pipes sound like the nursery school rhythm band . . . Miss Burrell, where do you suppose 821 is hiding? . . . Shoo! you had better go somewhere else to have the giggles . . . The sky is much too blue today—how can a person get any work done? . . . Smothered sighs, half-hidden yawns, and then finally peaceful, all-pervasive snores . . . Archery already? The targets are out . . . I think I'll let Napoleon take care of himself tonight . . . It must be nine o'clock, because I hear warbling outside . . . Perhaps I'll give Time the onceover, just to improve my mind . . .

FOR DELICIOUS THINGS TO EAT . . .

Choose Haserot's Fancy food products. They are all as carefully selected, from the best growing districts where the choicest fruits and vegetables are to be found as though any careful housekeeper might have made a personal selection.

Equally satisfying and delicious are the coffees from the Haserot mills — notably SENORA Coffee which you will find "always the same good coffee," in the airtite vacuum tin, with "its rare bouquet sealed in to stay."

THE HASEROT COMPANY — CLEVELAND

A Host of New Dishes Made with KORNLET

"Just the cream of the kernels," extracted from sweet corn by special process that omits coarse, indigestible hull. Especially useful in diets. Write for booklet of approved receipts.

Truly Distinctive Is This Fruit

The rare flavor and delicate texture of Haserot's Fancy Hawaiian Pineapple will tempt you as no other fruit can. Always ask for Haserot's Fancy Pineapple.
